Course Title : Phonetics and Phonology
Course Number : 307232
Credit Hours : 3
Pre requisite :
Placement :
Instructor:

Course Description :
The phonetics part of the course is a study of speech sounds as concrete entities, viz, phones. This involves the description of sounds in respect to place of articulation, manner, and voice. The phonology part of the course is concerned with the study of speech sounds as functional units, i.e. phonemes. In this part, students learn how to identify phonemes and how to relate them to their phonetic realisation. (preq. Eng. 231).

General objectives :
1). Description of the English speech sounds.

2). Identification of phonemes, and the phonological processes involved in the derivation of their PR.

Course outline :
Week I: The Vocal Tract
The Vocal Tract
Evaluation methodology :